Italian Soldiers Begin Withdrawal From Trieste Zone

Udine, Italy (AP) — Italian troops began withdrawing yesterday from their emergency positions along the Yugoslav and Trieste Free Territory borders.

The military command in this north Italian city said the withdrawal began late yesterday afternoon. It said all troops would be pulled back to their normal bases within 15 days.

The withdrawal started just 24 hours after Italy and Yugoslavia agreed to "normalize" their frontiers as a first peaceful step in reaching a solution to the explosive question of Trieste.

New York (AP) — Comedian Herb Shriner runs a TV-radio show called "Two for the Money." It came home to him yesterday.

At Doctors Hospital, Shriner's wife, Eileen, gave birth to twin boys.

Rigid Control Of Income Tax Cases Sought

Washington (AP) — Tougher administration of the income tax laws to prevent fraud and favoritism was urged yesterday by House investigators.

Less leniency to tax evaders, more jail sentences for fraud, better record-keeping by taxpayers themselves, and stricter accounting of deductible business expenses were among the recommendations.

The proposals were contained in the wind-up installment of a House Ways and Means subcommittee report summing up two years of investigation of tax frauds, irregularities and weaknesses in the law.

In a separate accompanying statement, Rep. Sadlak (R-Conn.) said most Americans "are honest taxpayers who can be relied on to pay their taxes voluntarily."

But for those willfully evading their share of the tax burden, Sadlak said, "existing administrative loopholes should be closed and penalties made more severe."

Four Children, Woman Perish

Waukegan, Ill. (AP) — A tenement fire in Waukegan's Negro district took five lives Saturday night—four of them in one family.

The victims, trapped in basement rooms of a two-story frame building were a 6-month-old baby, Sally Magee, a mother, Mrs. Ophelia Sanders, 36, and her three children, Minnie, 10, James, 8, and Bernice, 3.

State's Atty. Robert C. Nelson said he was "shocked and horrified" by the tragedy after an inspection of the scene showed that the building had been divided into a score of flats occupied by approximately 80 persons.

Dulles, Eden and Bidault began the day's work with completion of the note accepting a meeting with the Russians. It was understood the note makes it emphatically clear that the primary purpose of the Western Powers will be to discuss unification of Germany and an Austrian independence treaty.

Fine Sees Hope For Peace For Israel And Arabs

New York (AP) — Pennsylvania Gov. John S. Fine said yesterday Israel would be "heartened" if this country adopted a more "sympathetic attitude" toward it in the dispute with Arab nations.

Fine returned by plane with four Pennsylvania officials of United Jewish Appeal from a six-day tour of Israel. The governor also had an audience with Pope Pius XII in Rome.

The governor said that "tension between Israel and the Arabs is still rather severe and pronounced," but that both sides appear hopeful and he did not believe armed conflict would develop.

Revelations between this country and Israel are "bound to get better rather than worse," Fine said, because they are "too deep-rooted to be strained by temporary tensions."

41 Survive Explosion On Stratocruiser

Honolulu, (AP) — "We're darned glad to be on the ground right now."

Capt. Edward G. Kelley spoke for 35 passengers and 6 other crewmen who survived an engine explosion in a Pan American Stratocruiser far out over the Pacific yesterday.

The luxury airliner, "Queen of the Pacific," was flying at 10,000 feet 350 miles northwest of tiny Johnston Island when an explosion shattered the propeller and ripped an outboard engine. The plane turned in a screaming dive.

"We went from 10,000 to 5,500 feet very rapidly," Kelley said in a radiophone interview from Johnston Island.

"We were completely out of control but we managed to right the airplane."

The big plane was vibrating badly, Kelley, of San Jose, Calif., decided to try for Johnston, a tiny island 700 miles southwest of Honolulu.

"At first we had a severe buffeting and believed that something had wrapped around the tail or damaged the tail section," Kelley said. "We had considerable difficulty maintaining control of the airplane."

The Hawaiian Sea Frontier alerted Johnston Island at 2:45 a.m. Two minutes later, an Air Force two-engine SA16 Gruman was aloft and made radio contact with the crippled airliner.

The Gruman intercepted the Stratocruiser at 4:17 a. m., 150 miles northwest of Johnston. The big liner was flying at reduced speed only 2,300 feet above the ocean.

"We had difficulty keeping on course but the last of the flight it was much better," Kelley said.

"We finally held at 2,300 feet for the last couple of hours."

A number of Chinese and Japanese were among the passengers.

Fifteen boarded the plane at San Francisco and the others at Honolulu, Tokyo, Hong Kong and Karachi were among their listed destinations.

The Queen of the Pacific landed at Johnston at 5:33 a. m. (10:33 a. m., EST). Kelley brought the plane to a perfect landing.

Asked what his first thought was, he replied:

"Thank God! I wish my farm was big enough to support me."

Fitzgerald, Stroudsburg RD3, following a head-on collision which demolished both cars, put three teen-age occupants in East Stroudsburg General Hospital. ## Jets Crash To Earth, Kill Four Lawrenceville, Ga. (AP) — Four Air National Guard Thunderjet pilots making a weekend instrument flight crashed to their deaths near here Saturday night.

Officials at Dobbins Air Force Base in nearby Marietta said the F84s were returning from Miami and preparing to land when they fell from about 11,500 feet. One of the falling Thunderjets struck and demolished a small unoccupied house. The other three fighters fell nearby.

Investigators said the position of the wreckage indicated the planes plowed into a pine thicket while in a shallow dive. They said there was no indication that the planes collided before striking the ground.

Officials said a parachute on one of the bodies was open but said it was probably caught by the impasse of the crash.

The Atlanta Weather Bureau said there was a 500-foot ceiling in the area of the crash but visibility below the overcast was good.

All four pilots were members of the 116th Fighter-Bomber Wing, Georgia National Guard. They were identified as: Capt. Idon M. Hodges Jr., 30, of Atlanta; First Lt. Elwood C. Kent, 28, of East Point, Ga.; First Lt. Samuel P. Dixon of Chamblee, Ga.; Second Lt. William A. Tennent, 25, of Atlanta.

Missing Hunter Found Far From Point Of Search

Pineville, La. (AP) — Hugh W. Long, 54-year-old Radford, Va., businessman who disappeared last week while on a Pennsylvania hunting trip arrived here Saturday evening as the search was being continued.

Members of his family indicated he had flown home.

Long came to the home of his brother-in-law, Dr. H. G. Alexander, who declined to say much except that the businessman was in good condition.

The Virginian, along with three friends, went into the deer country near Clearfield, Pa., last Wednesday. When Long failed to appear at a previously designated meeting spot a widespread search was touched off.

Hunter Gives Chase, Catches Boy Accused Of Wounding Him In Mistake For Deer

A wounded hunter chased and caught the boy accused of shooting him Saturday at White Oak Run, near Scotrun.

Carl V. Tewksbury, 51, East Stroudsburg RD2, was taking a breather during a hunting trip with his son, Adrian, 17.

It was 2:45 p. m. Tewksbury stood on a stone wall between two fields. He was wearing bright red hunting pants and cap, according to Game Protector John Doebeling.

Tewksbury pulled out his pipe and lit it. Both hands were cupped around the pipe bowl when a shot sounded about 30 yards away.

A high-powered bullet tore through the flesh under Tewks-

Three Young People Injured In Foxtown Hill Collision

Slippery pavement resulted in a head-on crash on Foxtown Hill which put three teen-agers in the hospital yesterday.

Reported in "good condition" last night by General Hospital spokesmen were John J. Whittle, 17, of 73 Broad St., Stroudsburg, one driver; Raymond D. Fitzgerald, 17, Stroudsburg RD 3, the other driver, and Carol Burnley, 16, Shawnee, riding with Fitzgerald.

The three suffered severe cuts and bruises. Both cars were demolished.

Pte. Evan R. Chapin of Stroudsburg said Whittle was driving South, Fitzgerald was going North, and pulled out to pass another car at 1:50 p. m.

Fitzgerald's coupe skidded into the south-bound lane and collided with Whittle's car.

Chapin said Whittle's sedan came to a stop straddling the guard fence at the edge of the embankment. The other auto wound up in about the center of the highway, the trooper said. The front ends of both vehicles were pushed in. An ambulance took the three to the hospital.

Losses were estimated at about $300 for each car. Both were 1950 models.

102-Year-Old Lady Confident After Thigh Operation

London (AP) — "We are very proud of this case," said a spokesman of the Whittington Hospital yesterday.

The "case" was Mrs. Mary Jane Start, who at the age of 102 underwent a tricky operation, and came up smiling. Surgeons Saturday inserted a pin to knit a fracture of Mrs. Start's thigh bone.

She was in a wheel chair for 15 minutes yesterday, and sat up in bed for photographers, after insisting that her hair be brushed. Mrs. Start suffered her fracture at a home for aged women when she fell while stopping to pick up her cane. She is confident she will walk again much sooner than the doctors think possible.

Opposes Zahedi

Tehran, Iran, (AP) — Religious leader Ayatollah Kashani, openly opposing Premier Fazollah Zahedi over resumption of diplomatic relations with Britain, yesterday threatened a nationwide "hate British" campaign.

Bipartisan T-H Changes Not Likely

Washington (AP) — The Eisenhower administration apparently has vetoed a plan by Sens. H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) and Ives (R-NY) for a bipartisan approach to Taft-Hartley Act revisions and will sponsor its own proposed amendments.

Ives said in an interview he has abandoned plans to call a Senate Labor subcommittee together in advance of the January meeting of Congress to study proposed changes in the law.

Ives and Smith, who heads the Senate labor group, previously had urged Secretary of Labor Mitchell to let them to try to get an agreement between Republicans and Democrats on the committee to support certain amendments to the act.

The two senators argued that if such an agreement could be reached, it would go a long way toward taking the Taft-Hartley Act out of next year's election campaign.

But Ives said he thinks it is now "too late" to try to reach any agreement with the Democrats.

CIO Union Votes To Forego Wage Boost This Year

Parkersburg, W. Va. (AP) — Workers of the American Viscose Corp.'s Parkersburg plant voted Saturday to forego a wage increase this year "owing to market conditions."

Louis Full, business agent for Local 9 of the Textile Workers of America, CIO, said the vote agreed with results of similar votes taken at the firm's six other plants.

The union issued this statement: "Owing to market conditions it was agreed that the present wage structure would be extended for another 12 months period with the right of either party to reopen the contract or wage negotiations any time during the 12-month period."

Loss Fixed At $25 Million; Many Homeless

Vicksburg, Miss. (AP) — The death toll in tornado-stricken Vicksburg climbed to 28 last night as searchers continued the hunt for more victims in the wreckage of the desolate city.

Disaster officials say 230 were injured when the tornado struck Saturday night, causing damage estimated at 25 million dollars.

Red Cross workers estimated 937 buildings were destroyed or damaged and said about 1,200 persons were homeless.

The bodies of three more children were pulled from the ruins of the Saenger Theater.

While exhausted searchers still clawed at mountains of twisted rubble, Gov. Hugh White of Mississippi and civil defense officials sought emergency aid for the stricken community.

Army and National Guard engineers estimated damage in Vicksburg at 25 million dollars. This did not include burned cotton in Saturday night's 15-minute holocaust.

But the weary men who probed the ruins thought only of the bodies they still might find. Some said they were certain at least seven others were under the debris.

The twister, worst of four that swept into Mississippi, Louisiana and Arkansas, shattered Vicksburg's business district for 12 blocks, set off fires in a dozen places including Mississippi River warehouses and choked off normal life for 28,000 residents of this river city.

Gen. W. P. Wilson of the Mississippi National Guard, his guardsmen augmented by police from nearby cities, declared an emergency Saturday night. His armed men patrolled the debris-trewn streets but many red-eyed storekeepers kept their own night-long vigil against looting.

Wilson said yesterday there was little looting.

Daylight stirred citizens to attempt a normal life. "Drug stores, eating places and the like opened, even if surroundings looked like an American Coventry."

Buildozers and drag lines went to work clearing streets. Trucks and bucket brigades brought debris from buildings.

The devout attended shortened church services and prayers of the sorrowing rose to Him.

A particularly stirring prayer came from the lips of 4-year-old Carol Moses—one of many children trapped under the wreckage of the Saenger Theater in downtown Vicksburg Saturday night.

It was dark and stifling and terrifying in the midst of the Saenger's front rows after the roof dropped with a roar. Carol was frightened, as were the 24 trapped children with her.

"Pray to God, Carol," said the voice of Mrs. George Mitchell.

So Carol prayed in her childish, frightened voice and found assurance. She began to sing "Jingle Bells." Perhaps the example of little Carol helped to quiet the screaming of other children.

Mrs. Mitchell told the story of Carol, one of the incidents of a terrifying burial for three and one-half hours. Mrs. Mitchell had taken 16 children to a birthday theater party.

"We had no chance to move," she said. "We were buried about three and one-half hours. We were smothering at first. When they started to move debris we could feel cool air. Sometimes when they moved debris a lot of weight came on us."

"Some of the children screamed for awhile, then were rather calm, considering."

Mrs. Mitchell, six months pregnant, appeared likely to give birth by dawn, but physicians at Mercy Hospital later reported they were hopeful of staving off the premature birth several days.

Tornado Stricken Area To Receive U.S. Assistance

Washington, (AP) — President Eisenhower last night declared the tornado stricken area of Vicksburg to be a major disaster area, clearing the way for federal assistance.

The President telephoned his announcement from Bermuda where he is attending a Big Three conference, to Sherman Adams, a presidential aide.

DAMAGES OF SEVERAL HUNDRED DOLLARS were caused when firewood stacked on this back porch at 465 Lincoln Ave., East Stroudsburg, caught fire Saturday and in turn set fire to the porch and wall. ## Christine To Present 14 Criminal Cases To Grand Jury At Sessions Today

Fourteen criminal cases are scheduled for presentation to the grand jury tomorrow.

The cases will be taken before the jury by District Attorney Elmer D. Christine.

The district attorney said the list may be reduced if any of the cases on the roster are disposed of by guilty pleas at today's session of argument court.

An involuntary manslaughter case is the most serious charge, with Walter J. Goodleaf, a Canadian steelworker, as defendant. The case involves a motor vehicle fatality resulting from a two-car collision at Bartonsville at the intersection of Routes 12 and 611.

Prosecutor in the case is Pfc. Alex G. Kearn at the Stroudsburg station.

Four men are charged with burglary.

They are Alfred Storm and Robert Young, both of East Stroudsburg, with Pfc. Robert Latzo of the Mount Pocono substation as prosecutor; Robert John Laubach, Wind Gap, with Pfc. Frederick J. Murdock of the Brodheadsville substation as prosecutor; William Kelly, East Stroudsburg, with Edward Ace as prosecutor and Officer Ed Harloe as investigator.

Charged with larceny is James E. Adams, Stroudsburg, with Morris J. Neuman as prosecutor.

Two charges of liquor law violations will be presented. One is against John J. Cebula Sr., Mount Pocono, with David C. Christ of the Wilkes-Barre office, State Liquor Control Board, as prosecutor. The other is against Frederick C. Stutzman, Canadensis, with Robert D. Mason of the Wilkes-Barre branch of the board as prosecutor.

Accused of driving while intoxicated are Harold R. Brinkley, Pocono Summit; John E. Fish Jr., East Stroudsburg; and Eugene K. Knierim, East Stroudsburg.

Officer John B. Tretheway, Stroudsburg, is prosecutor in a case of operating a motor vehicle while a driving license was under suspension. Defendant is Earl R. Burch, Stroudsburg.

Joseph L. Renfro, Stroudsburg, faces a charge of public indecency, with Stroudsburg Police Chief James F. McConnell as prosecutor. Winifred Miller has charged Alfred Miller, East Stroudsburg with assault and battery.

Fire Damages E. S. House

Firewood burned and caused several hundred dollars damage Saturday. It was on a porch instead of in a fireplace.

Firemen said they didn't know what had caused the wood to ignite on the back porch of the William Woodyatt residence at 465 Lincoln Ave. about 2 p.m.

The flame ate through the outer weatherboards of the house and burned inside the partition. Smoke, but no flame, emerged into the interior of the two-family house before firemen put out the wall fire.

Mother, Son Hurt When Tossed From Car

An East Stroudsburg woman and her two-year-old son were slightly injured Saturday morning on Main St., Stroudsburg, in a two-car collision, borough police said yesterday.

Police said Paul Lim, 805 Main St., Stroudsburg, was operating a sedan north on S. Sixth St., pulled into the intersection at Main St. Midway across the street, Lim's car was struck by a car driven by Louis Caretta, 39 of 160 Spring St., East Stroudsburg, police said.

Caretta's vehicle was traveling across the intersection in an easterly direction on Main St.

The front of the Caretta car collided with the left side of Lim's vehicle, according to police.

On impact, Mrs. Elta Caretta, 35, and son Louis Jr., 2, fell from their car. The boy's head was slightly injured when it hit the windshield; Mrs. Caretta suffered a bruised left knee and minor back injuries, police said.

Damages to Lim's car were estimated at $175 including the left door and the left front fender.

Damages to the Caretta vehicle had not been estimated last night. They included both front fenders, both headlights, the grille, bumper and hood, police said.

The accident occurred during a downpour of rain. Investigation of the mishap is being continued, police said.

Honest Veterans

More than half of the loans made to veterans of World War II from Pennsylvania have already been paid up, a state Veterans Administration report informs us, and, while this should not be surprising, it is nonetheless welcome news.

Since the end of the second global struggle a total of more than 10 thousand men from this commonwealth, who were in uniform during the war, applied for financial aid to get them started in business or to recover some of the ground they lost by having been away from their affairs.

Perhaps you will recall that when the plan was initially explained to the general public, there were quite a few cynics who felt that the government was making a great mistake in offering veterans the chance to make these loans. The theory of these dissidents was that most of the loans would never be repaid.

Not all of them will be, of course. As a matter of record, records from the three major offices in Pennsylvania show a total of 712 defaults out of all the transactions into which the veterans entered. But even in announcing this list of those who failed to pay up at the proper time, the Veterans Administration hastens to add that of the $312,015 it has had to pay out to make good these unpaid loans, two-thirds of it has been recovered and more is being paid back daily.

All of which adds up to a splendid record for those veterans from our state who have tried to catch up with the economic parade. That some of them would fall by the wayside was inevitable, but the Veterans Administration studies show that the percentage of these is about the same as those defaulting in regular commercial loans outside of government aid.

We are proud of this demonstration of honesty among our soldiers, sailors and airmen, and wish them continued good fortune in their endeavors.

A Little Understanding

Several weeks ago Agriculture Secretary Benson announced a reorganization of the Soil Conservation Service which he said was designed to make it do a better job for less cost.

Immediately, there was a violent reaction in the areas where soil conservation is a vital operation. Mr. Benson was accused of trying to "ruin" the program. The alarm was sincere and widespread.

Now, one of the spearheads of that protest, the National Assn. of Soil Conservation Districts, has endorsed the Benson plan, tactfully admitting misunderstanding.

"Our big job now," says the leader of this group, Waters Davis of Texas, "is to help the secretary and his staff make good on their promises of a stronger, more dynamic technical agency to render better service to the millions of farmers and ranchers in districts."

It's remarkable what a little bit of understanding will do.

Symbol Of Goodness

The uniform of the Salvation Army is familiar the world over. At Christmas its kettles are so much a part of the scene that without them it wouldn't seem like Christmas.

It is because of the great work done by this world-wide organization that we honored them during National Salvation Army Week, which closed yesterday. The honor is well deserved, for there is no denying the fine work done by the Salvation Army in helping the needy both in spiritual and material bounty.

Its program covers a broad range of activities. The Army workers aid the lonely, the impoverished and the aged; the chronically ill, disaster victims, and those seeking religious sanctuary. It extends its services to all, in the elemental Christian spirit of no discrimination.

As does any organization that expends its energies and its funds on doing good, the Salvation Army is always in need of money to carry forward its excellent program. Keep the Christmas kettles boiling, with the certain knowledge that every dollar will reward the giver with a sense of helping his fellow men.

BERMUDA MEETING

Churchill—Well, here we are again. How are you, Ike?

Ike—I feel as fine as possible for a fellow who didn't know when he was well off. Congratulations on your fortieth birthday.

Churchill—My seventy-ninth, you mean.

Ike—I'm splitting you two for one. Nobody can dispute that you have the vigor of two men.

Laniel—You both look in the pink. It is hard to admit that we are all in the red, as it were.

Ike—It's nice to see you here, Mr. Laniel.

Laniel—I barely made it. Excuse me while I check and see if I'm still in office.

Churchill—Well, let's get down to the matters in hand. Are we all set?

Ike—Everything but caddies.

Churchill—Caddies! Ike—Yes, we must plunge into the vital area of world tensions at once. I hear the water holes are deadly.

Churchill—For a man who drove the English channel, all other water holes should seem trivial. But this is not a golf tournament.

Ike—My mistake. I keep thinking of golf. All Bermuda is like a perfect fairway.

Churchill—From what I have read of your golf, you haven't seen much of fairways. That's a good one. I must remember to put it in my next book.

Laniel—May be get down to business? What's our most pressing problem?

Ike (wincing)—Please don't use that word "pressing"! It's all I hear wherever I take a lesson.

Churchill—Let us begin by discussing the new picture presented by the Russian consent to attend a Big Four meeting.

Ike—We get all set for a three-some and Moscow comes rushing in with: "Let's make it a four-some!"

Churchill—We must get away from the golfing mood. When you were in Europe I never heard you speak of golf.

Laniel—I wouldn't say that. Almost every headline seemed to be "EISENHOWER IN NEW DRIVE."

Ike—Compared to my life now I was merely practicing chip shots over there.

Churchill—Well, now let's get going. Ready? We all know the nature of our problem here.

Ike—Yes, but what's the YARD-AGE?

Laniel—Let's say it just calls for distance and direction and follow through.

A cry from the Bermuda Hills: "FORE!"

Churchill (pushing Ike back into his chair)—I knew somebody would throw a monkey-wrench into this session and make it tougher!

The dairy of the late Harold Ickes will come out with some blistering cracks at ex-President and Mrs. Roosevelt, despite the fact the widow, Mrs. Ickes, has made many deletions as too rough! Winston Churchill is 79 and while this is a new high for the movement, we hope the world can hold him for the long pull. . . Art Carney looks to us like one of the best comedians to come along in years. . . the boy has restraint and gets a laugh before he opens his mouth.

Martin Reveals Decision To Pigeonhole Trade Act

Washington — The 20-year-old Reciprocal Trade Act is headed for the mothballs.

That's what Speaker Joe Martin is telling Republican congressional leaders. He is saying the Administration will not seek another extension of the world-famed law. It will be allowed to expire next June 12.

President Eisenhower forced through a one-year continuance of the Act at the last session of Congress after a long and hard fight that sharply divided Republican ranks. Democratic votes were largely responsible for his victory.

Shelving the measure next year will not immediately affect existing trade agreements. They will continue in force for their duration. That's what happened last spring when the Act expired temporarily while Congress was battling over its renewal. But discarding the law completely will slam the door on new trade pacts; others could no longer be negotiated.

According to Speaker Martin, the Administration does not intend to junk the Trade Act permanently. It will be merely pigeonholed for a year or so.

As Martin explains it, the reason for this is to avert a bitter tariff brawl that might cause serious dissensions within the GOP in a critical election year. To prevent the party from tearing itself apart over this supercharged issue, it is deemed advisable to bypass it until the next (83rd) Congress convenes in 1955.

In that new Congress the Administration will propose legislation covering all aspects of the tariff problem.

That's the inside word Martin is giving fellow GOP leaders. He is asserting this far-reaching decision was reached at a White House conference. Chief among those participating were President Eisenhower, Treasury Secretary George Humphrey, Senate Republican Leader William Knowland, Calif., and Martin.

The latter is also telling party colleagues the secret Administration plan does not bar consideration, including public hearings, by congressional committees of the report that is expected from the President's public hearings, by congressional committees of the report that is expected from the President's Foreign Economic Policy Commission.

This group, headed by Clarence B. Randall, board chairman of Inland Steel Corp., is making a far-ranging study of international trade and its effect on U.S. economy. Randall is a vigorous exponent of extensive trade relations. His Commission is expected to strongly recommend such policies.

Speaker Martin is telling GOP leaders that Randall's recommendations will be considered by congressional committees—but that's all. No legislation on these matters will be permitted.

One of Martin's lieutenants questioned the wisdom of "ducking" the Reciprocal Trade issue.

"We had to make a choice between doing that or having a scrap that is certain to leave scars among our own people," replied Martin; "so we decided to take the first course and not bring up the matter at all. I don't think that will attract too much attention. We're going to have too much to do as it is, and there are a lot of others besides ourselves who aren't eager to get bogged down in a complicated tariff wrangle."

Note: Congressional members of the Randall Commission include Senators Eugene Millikin (R., Colo.), Walter George (D., Ga.), Harry Byrd (D., Va.), Bourke Hickenlooper (R., Ia.), Prescott Burch (R., Conn.), Representatives Dan Reed (R., N. Y.), Richard Thompson (R., Pa.), John Vorys (R., O.), Jere Cooper (D., Tenn.), and Laurie C. Battle (D., Ala.).

Tough Fuzzler — The Army is drafting Communists and ex-Communists, but does not have a fixed policy on this touchy problem.

It's still being discussed—as it has been for several years. Army policy makers admit that privately, but carefully avoid talking about it publicly if they can help it.

The Army does have a firm rule on the employment of civilians who fall into those categories. They are barred from Army jobs. But handling draftees is a different matter.

Selective Service takes the position that men should not be permitted to dodge military duty because of Communist ties. The Army accepts that basic thesis and assigns such draftees to functions where no security is involved. But their over-all problem is still unsolved.

Army Secretary Robert Stevens disclosed that in an exchange with a member of Congress. Following are the highlights:

Question: "You state the Army will not employ either civilian Communists or ex-Communists; is that correct?"

Stevens: "Yes. We don't want them if we can help it. However, you can't have people avoiding military service merely because they say they are Communists."

Question: "What do you do with draftees who are Communists? Can they get out of military service as conscientious objectors?"

Stevens: "I would say 'no.'"

Question: "Can a person like Budenz or Whittaker Chambers get into the Army? They are ex-Communists."

Stevens: "The thing we are interested in is not so much ancient history. We are interested in what the situation is now."

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Davies Regarded As Best Man To Recruit Reds As Double Agents; What Was Reason?

The Case of John Paton Davies, Jr., John Paton Davies, Jr., has, for many years, been a controversial figure in the State Department. He has for some time been hidden away in the American Embassy in Peru.

General Walter Bedell Smith got into the act by indicating that McCarthy knows all about Davies, concerning whom Smith testified in a closed hearing of a Senate committee. Smith when he was head of the CIA, apparently employed Davies to recruit Communist employees for the CIA as double-agents, which may be sound procedure.

The McCarran Committee, in its report on its investigation into the Institute of Pacific Relations, stated:

"John Paton Davies, Jr., testified falsely before the subcommittee in denying that he recommended the Central Intelligence Agency employ, utilize and rely upon certain individuals having Communist associations and connections. This matter was relevant to the inquiry and substantial in import."

The excuse given for Davies is that as he was employed by the CIA, whatever he knew or did was top secret and that therefore he could not tell the truth. This is ultra vires as he was under oath and therefore was forbidden, by law and morality, to tell an untruth Whereas the Department of Justice obtained an indictment against Owen Lattimore for perjury, it rejected the recommendation of the McCarran Committee, which reads:

"That the Department of Justice submit to a grand jury the question of whether perjury has been committed before the subcommittee by John P. Davies, Jr."

This has been ignored. In fact, John Paton Davies, Jr., has remained in government employ since this recommendation was made.

In Elizabeth Bentley's testimony, this colloquy concerning Davies appeared:

"Mr. Morris, Miss Bentley, did you ever have any direct relations with John P. Davies?"

"Miss Bentley, No."

"Mr. Morris, Did you ever have anything to do with any of his reports, official State Department reports?"

"Miss Bentley, Yes, through the Silvermaster group. I was told that he was quite sympathetic to our cause, and I remember one report of his that they gave to me which definitely showed that fact."

Dr. Karl Wittfogel testified about Davies as follows:

"Dr. Wittfogel, . . . I warned . . . against things you find rampant all over the White Book (on China issued by the State Department) and which I found at least in the mind of one high-ranking gentleman in the State Department with whom I once had an opportunity to discuss Chinese affairs, the idea that the Chinese Communists may be different from other Communists."

"Mr. Morris, Who is this high-ranking gentleman?"

"Dr. Wittfogel, John Davies."

"Mr. Morris, John P. Davies?"

"Dr. Wittfogel, John P. Davies. You find extreme positions taken in Lattimore's memorandum about the necessity of giving as much as we can and leaning over backward. Otherwise we might — this is a formula which you find again and again — drive the Chinese Communists in the arms of the Russians. In my opinion this is one of the funniest remarks I have ever heard in my life. You don't have to drive them very hard. I think it is insulting the intelligence of this country to make that kind of remark."

The evidence in the McCarran Committee hearings is that John Paton Davies, Jr., was one of the architects of the American China Policy which has proved to be so disastrous; that he was closely associated with the Institute of Pacific Relations and particularly with Lauchlin Currie, the Presidential administrative assistant, who is now working for Colombia and against whom the testimony has grown mountain high.

General Smith's explanation in closed session that Davies recruited Communists as double agents does not absolve Davies of such matters as appear in 71 references in the McCarran Committee hearings relating to the Institute of Pacific Relations. I wonder if anyone asked General Smith why he thought Davies would be the most suitable man to recruit Communists to be double agents. There must have been a reason.

On Broadway

—by Walter Winchell

The Broadway Lights
First-Nighters: "Kismet," starring Alfred Drake and Doretta Morrow, opened at the Ziegfeld Theatre Thursday night after playing 100 performances in the tryout towns before challenging the Broadway critics. The late Sidney Howard's play, "Madam, Will You Walk" (at the Phoenix Theater) was welcomed by the reviewers who had no newspapers in which to salute it. Some of them gave quotes to radio newsmen. They acclaimed the twinkling of Jessica Tandy and Hume Cronyn. The show's success has ironic overtones. It was originally produced in 1939 with George M. Cohan as the star. It perished trying out . . . Tidings from beyond the Broadway borders offered the customary oaks and noaks. Franchot Tone's starrer, "Oh, Men! Oh, Women!" (in New Haven) and "Little Jessie James" (in Cincy) were pegged as potential clicks . . . "In the Summerhouse" (at Hartford) and "Dead Pigeon" (St. Louis) were rated as clucks.

In the Wings: A Broadway ham was trying to talk his wife into deferring her trip to Reno . . . "Can't you even wait," he moaned, "until the newspaper strike is over?" . . . One of Sinatra's pals (just in from Hollywood) was asked how Frank was taking the breakup with Ava . . . "Terrible," was the report. "He's putting on weight!"

Stage Door: Marilyn Monroe rejected the lead in "Sodom, Tennessee." So producers Aldrich and Meyers shelved plans for that play for the umpteenth time . . . The N. Y. Times reviewer at Anna Russell's Carnegie concert was a hepcat. He noted that she "fractured" them . . . Variety's Washington agent reported that "Thieves Carnival" proved "to be amusing, drawing not only chuckles but delighted bellylaughs." Then he flipped eyebrows with: "The show isn't good enough for Broadway" . . . Baltimore reviewers appreciated "Born Yesterday" and Mrs. Sugar Ray Robinson in the Billie Dawn role . . . Critic W. Gibbs (The New Yorker) found "it rather shocking" to discover "Kind Sir" is a sellout (with standees every perf) despite the sour notices . . . Very simple: Mary Martin's magic and Charles Boyer's womanuovers . . . Why the legit theaters are reluctant to install bars: How many drinks can you sell in a pair of 10-minute intermissions?

The Cinemas: "Flight to Tangier," a conventional melodrama is piloted by Jack Palance. Joan Fontaine is his co-pilot . . . A Britisher named "Trent's Last Case" has the clue-chaser and killer playing hare-and-hounds. It is a superior film . . . "The Stand at Apache River" is a tomahawk-waver from Old Hukum Reservation . . . "Veils of Bagdad" unravels the gee-whiz brand of adventure . . . Lea Padovani is the flame in "Flame of Love," a pretty good Italian import . . . "Project M17" is a zoom and zinger about the development of jets. The story, you might say, has wings . . . "Jesse James Rides" is Bing-Bang-Blah.

The Celebrities: NBC's Opera Theater gave the proper vibrations to Verdi's Macbeth. Patricia Neway was the prima dona dandy . . . The sales gab by Doug Fairbanks and Adolphe Menjou make their commishers seem downright elegant . . . Studio One's merry communique on Playwrights vs. Critics expertly yanked the fangs of the aislemen . . . Jack Benny's "Omniibus" was joky; Dorothy Malone was seelightful . . . Janet Gaynor's teevy inaugural was crowded with charm. She was enchanting throughout. The story was entertaining some of the time . . . The surprise of the week was Godfrey's homespun Hamlet . . . The most literate comedy script of the week: NBC-TV "Bonino," which goes off the air soon. It blasted the sponge-head activities of certain teevy producers . . . Alex Drier's "Man on the Go" bill offered this corker: "If Patrick Henry thought taxation without representation was bad, he should see it with representation!"

Stairway to the Stars: Eddie Fisher mailed one million autographed photos of himself in the past 9 months. 20 stenogs were required. Terrific expense — but deductible . . . Mark Richman in the cast of "End as a Man" was a druggist's apprentice in Philly before getting stage-struck . . . Broadway expects to lose another talented newcomer to the movies. ## Looking At Life —by Erich Brandeis

It's an old saying that the best assurance of growing up into a decent citizen is to pick decent parents.

I cannot, of course, tell you how to do that — but I CAN tell bachelor ladies how to "get your man."

It worked with Katherine Tsakarakos, a 44-year-old spinster of Athens, Greece, and it may work with others.

Katherine didn't like spinsterhood. As a matter of fact, she was almost desperate about getting herself a husband. She had picked her man, a handsome 24-year-old shepherd, Athanasios Kapsalas from Castania, but he was coy.

She tried just about everything to hook him.

She wrote him passionate love letters. She cooked many enticing dinners for him. With the help of four of her cousins she even had him kidnapped and taken to the hills.

In vain. Athanasios just simply couldn't be bothered with falling for Katherine.

Then a distant relative died in the United States and left her $3,000.

That did it. Suddenly Athanasios Kapsalas fell violently in love with Katherine, and as soon as the inheritance was duly certified and delivered, Katherine changed her name from Tsakarakos to Kapsalas.

I do hope they will live happily forever after, which, I believe, one can quite easily do on $3,000 in Greece.

So you see, all you maiden ladies, a good way to find a husband is first of all to find a rich but aged relative.

That is, to find the kind of husband to whose heart the way is not through his stomach but through your pocketbook.

Speaking of hearts, I have another piece of good news for my readers.

Dr. Ancel Keys, a Minnesota scientist, has announced that contrary to accepted theories, overweight is NOT a primary cause of heart disease.

There is some evidence that overweight may contribute somewhat to high blood pressure, but it does not cause coronary ailments, he says.

Thirty pounds one way or the other doesn't make much difference, according to the doctor, who is connected with the University of Minnesota.

"Much more research is needed," he said, "on such questions as the kind of food people eat, the amount of work or exercise they do and the strain they put on their hearts."

The doctor also maintains that a person's weight depends to a large extent on his general build. Some people have more natural net weight than others — so it's the fat weight that counts and not just the gross weight.

In spite of Dr. Keys, however, if I were you (I know I'm going to do it), I would watch my weight, anyway.

I think it's much nicer to look like a banana than a butterball. And another thing—the truths of today, often become the falsehoods of tomorrow. You can never tell whether Dr. Keys is right or wrong.

I'll only remind you of the fact that if you had said a few years ago—as history-geeks go—that the earth is round, you'd have been put in a strait jacket.

And today, with the shape it's in, who can be sure whether it's round, flat—or crooked?

Try and Stop Me

—by Bennet Cerf

There's a progressive primary school in Greenwich Village where youngsters are encouraged to "express" themselves, consequences be damned. One kid who had always been shy suddenly delighted his teacher by declaring loudly, "I can dress myself!" "That's splendid!" she enthused. "I know you'd get around to it soon." Thus encouraged, the lad interrupted class three times to repeat his announcement, with the teacher getting a little more annoyed each time. When he did it again, she marched him behind a screen in the corner where he was told he must stay until noon as punishment . . . Ten minutes later, he popped out to the front of the room, almost naked as a jay bird, to announce, "I can undress myself, too!"

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Well, we all looked very gala on Saturday night with the printer's ink washed off, and our hair all combed neat and flat instead of being in the process of being pulled out by the roots as deadline or time check neared.

And it was pleasant to be able to talk without feeling time nipping at your heels. To eat without taking notes. To stay for the whole party instead of leaving just as the fun began.

In fact the Daily Record-WVPO party was a peaceful interlude in a rather hectic weekend. There's no doubt about it, parents are prone to worry as smoke to rise or rain to fall.

After getting the hunkies home from camp, all safe and sound, and each one with his buck, you'd think we might draw a free breath on Sunday. But that was the day after our oldest's driver's license came. And going to church was the first chance she'd had to use it.

A whole family full of backseat drivers is something to live through. Don't grudge the gears, let out the clutch slower, watch out for the crossroad, put out your hand, keep both hands on the wheel, watch that boy on a bicycle. And still we made it.

There's one thing, though, that kids don't have to contend with in learning to drive and that's to "advance the spark." Oh happy day, do you remember when you almost broke your father's arm while he was cranking the car, by "advancing the spark" too soon. Horse and buggy days are more my speed.

Brownies At Work On GS House Tree

Brownies have been at work at the Girl Scout House and a decorated Christmas tree bears evidence of the "Brownie Secret" which has been keeping Brownie troops of the county busy for a number of weeks.

The decorations were made in the troop meetings, and placed on the tree by the Brownies this week with all but two of the Brownie troops in the county present to help with the arrangements. In addition to the traditional paper chains and Christmas lanterns, the tree is decorated with many unusual items: tinsel angels, clothes-pin Santa Claus and dancing girls with marshmallow heads are among the colorful items hung on the tree.

The tree itself was secured by the Senior Scouts of the county, who also placed it in the Girl Scout House in readiness for the Brownies.

The Brownies held carol practice with Mrs. David Mazer after the tree-trimming in preparation for the Scout Carol Sing on December 23. The carolers will meet at the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church, and plan to carol at 7 at the railroad station, and at the Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church about 7:45. Following the carols they will adjourn to the Girl Scout House on Sarah Street where refreshments will be served by the Senior Scouts.

The Leaders Association at their meeting of the Girl Scout House on Thursday night had a chance to admire the Brownie Tree and also to consider final plans for the carolling. The main part of the meeting was devoted to training when the leaders learned how to make many unusual Christmas gifts in the troop meetings.

Miss Sonia James brought her terrarium as a suggestion for troop activity.

Everitt Class Elects Officers, Has A Party

The A. F. Everitt Class elected officers at their meeting last week in the social rooms of the church, electing Mrs. Edna Bush as the new president; Miss Frances Everitt, vice president; Mrs. Hazel Robinson, secretary; and Miss Dorothy Goedecke, treasurer.

Mrs. Cora Albertson, retiring president, conducted the devotion which opened the meeting. The communion committee for January 6 was named: Mrs. Jean Kautter, Mrs. Celia Hagerty, Mrs. Cora Albertson and Mrs. Mary Altomere.

The new officers will take over at the January 6 meeting, when Mrs. Bush the new president will be chairman of the hostess committee which also includes Mrs. Viola Buck, Mrs. Cecelia Hagerty and Mrs. Anna Meixell.

Following the business meeting, a Christmas party was held with exchange of Christmas gifts and refreshments served from a table decorated for the season. The hostesses were Mrs. P. N. Wohlsein, Mrs. Ruth Everitt, Mrs. Hazel Robinson and Mrs. Lulu Kinsley. There were about 30 members present.

Sometime during the mad rush of Saturday afternoon, when I was giving our stationery department a much-needed hand, Souvillea Bowman of lingerie bustled up, accompanied by a smiling stranger in a blue coat, and a small boy with big brown eyes.

"This lady has been trying to meet you for more than a year," Souvillea explained. "She hears your radio program every morning, but you've never been around before when she came in."

Mrs. F. - - took my hand and introduced herself. "I live in Belvidere, N.J.," she explained pleasantly, "and I've missed your program only about twice since you've been on the air. I ask for you every time I come in, and wanted to tell you that every time you mention Wyckoff's being a friendly store, I answer right back with, 'You can say THAT again.' I do love shopping here, and I've felt that you and I were friends for a long time now."

She introduced the child as her great grandson, Bobby T. - - . It was somewhat difficult to believe that she was a great grandmother, but she vowed that it was true, and Bobby grinned in happy affirmation.

"Have you seen Santa, Bobby?" I asked.

He nodded, and Mrs. F. said that he had, but that he had been disappointed. At that point the little fellow demanded to know whether the man in the red suit was really Santa or his helper.

Now THERE was a question, but, in keeping with our Wyckoff policy of always pleasing a customer when possible, I decided he'd be anything the youngster's heart desired. "Well," I parried, "some say he's the real Santa, and I believe he is. But some children prefer to think that Santa's still busy in his workshop. So—

"But which is he?" Bobby insisted.

"Which do you think?" I asked.

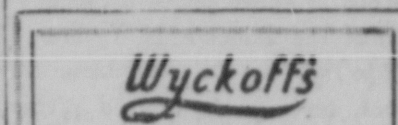

"Do you think he's just a helper?"

Bobby nodded his head up and down, looking so stricken by the admission that anyone could see something must be done. "I saw where his whiskers end up here"—he pointed to his temple.

For a moment we stood speechless, as horrified as was Bobby. It was then I decided to reveal Santa's secret. "Oh—THAT," I said. "Now look, Bobby, I'll tell you the story about that if you promise not to tell any of the other children. One day last week Santa fell asleep in our lounge with his pipe in his mouth, and burned all his whiskers off. It was dreadful. He didn't look like himself at all. Finally, someone went into New York and bought him a white beard just as much like his own as possible. You are a bright boy and noticed, but most of the children haven't, and you must never tell. It's Santa's secret, and he'd be terribly humiliated if he knew I had discussed it."

Bobby's eyes were growing wider by the moment, and a mischievous smile played around his mouth. Looking back, I am sure that revealing Santa's secret was one of the finest inspirations ever came my way. Mrs. F. thought so too. "Thank you," she whispered. "Thank you very, very much. Just think, Bobby—you and Santa Claus have a secret!"

Wyckoff's is not only the friendly store. It is the Christmas store... in its decorations, its merchandise, its music, and its ever-present under-current of good will to all. Shopping days before the holiday are fun—but our gift suggestions are numerous, exciting, and priced the way you desire. Santa may have a secret... but it's no secret at all that you can "spread the glow of Christmas with gifts from WYCKOFF'S!"

Elks Honor Memory Of Four Members

Rev. George Creitz, pastor of First Reformed Church, Easton, in his address at the annual memorial exercises of East Stroudsburg Lodge of Elks yesterday afternoon declared "a person can get out of life about what he wants to."

He based his conclusion after giving many instances that good arguments are possible on both sides of any question which might be broached. The speaker, who was a chaplain in the Marines in the last war, gave numerous experiences while located on Okinawa.

The exercises were in charge of A. A. Lauffer, exalted ruler and were participated in the chair of flowers. The memory of the four members who died during the past year—Albert B. Newhart, Carl C. Scholla, Jacob Tomei and Charles R. Barlight—was honored.

Music for the program was furnished by the Decemettes, of Stroudsburg High School, Numa J. Snyder, director. The accompanists were Misses Ruth Fetherman and Shelby Carter. They sang the processional, "Abide With Me" and three other selections.

The chair officers who participated in the ceremonies in addition to the exalted ruler, were: George H. Costenbader, esteemed leading night; Russell Imbt Jr., loyal knight and chairman of memorial committee; Fred H. Rhodes, lecturing knight; Robert Anderson, esquire; William C. Sunday, chaplain; Kenneth W. Barthold, inner guard; Elmer Shade, secretary; Oscar Zimmerman, treasurer, and William E. Ransberger, tiller.

Attorney J. Joseph McCluskey in his eulogy for the four members whose memories were honored, related their activities and also the fact that an Elk is never forgotten.

Rev. Creitz also gave the memorial address at the exercises of Bangor lodge last night.

Members of the memorial committee in addition to Mr. Imbt, are: William Livadas, Mr. Russell Imbt Sr., Morgan Hebard, Charles E. Reinhardt, John C. Masters, Howard L. Kelper Jr., Mr. McCluskey and John P. Bachman.

Other instructors who attended the meeting were: Raymond P. Harding, Stroud Township schools; Nathan Kunkle, Chestnut Hill; Alan Stierner, Smithfield; Joseph Kulick, Middle Smithfield; John Baymer, Wind Gap school; Anna Strem, Stroudsburg; Anna Russo-poulos, also Stroudsburg; Mrs. Melva Reid, East Stroudsburg; and Jennene Zugel, Tannersville, a student at State Teachers College, now student-teaching at Pocono school.

Greyhound Bus Employees To Vote On Offer

Philadelphia (AP)—Wage proposals by Pennsylvania Greyhound Lines will be submitted to a referendum of the bus line's employees in another move to prevent a threatened strike.

Agreement on the referendum, to be completed by Dec. 24, was announced here Saturday at the conclusion of a negotiation session called by federal mediators.

M. Herbert Syme, general counsel for the Pennsylvania System of Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees (AFL) announced the referendum plan, and said union negotiators would urge acceptance.

A strike of the 2,500 employees originally was set for Nov. 25 but was postponed for further negotiations.

Neither Syme nor company officials would disclose what offer would be placed before the membership. The union previously had rejected a plan for an 8-cent hourly increase with additional 4-cent hourly boosts in each of the next three years. A similar proposal has been accepted by employees of 24 other lines in the Greyhound system.

Record, WPO Honor Workers

(Continued from page five) employees received a gold pin symbolizing his or her term of service with the organizations. Those with long-time service received pins with an appropriate jewel.

All pins were presented by James H. Ottoway, president of Ottoway Newspapers and Radio Stations, a firm which publishes four daily newspapers in Pennsylvania and New York State.

Other highlights of the program were a "giveaway" entertainment presided over by Elton Hall; a joke-telling contest called "Can You Beat It?"; a review of marriages, births and other events during the year by Ed Somers, and group carol-singing led by Chester Miller assisted by a group from the audience.

Mr. and Mrs. Ottoway were presented with a gift from all employees of The Daily Record and WPO. Other management officials received individual gifts.

All employees received gifts from a grab-bag assortment. Dancing to music by Tommy Cullen's band followed the dinner-program.

Arrangements for the annual party were made by Mrs. Ruth Brown, Mrs. Margaret Rupprecht and their committee.

Catholics To Mark Tuesday As Holy Day

Tuesday is a holy day for Monroe County Catholics.

On that day the Roman Church marks the Feast of the Immaculate Conception during which all Catholics are "bound to hear mass," according to Rev. Harold G. Durkin, St. Matthew's and St. Luke's Churches.

At St. Matthew's in East Stroudsburg, the masses will be said at 6:15 a. m., 9 a. m. and 12:05 p. m.

Masses at St. Luke's, Stroudsburg, will be said at 7 a. m. and 8 a. m.

At St. John's in Bushkill, the mass will be said at 7:30 a. m.

Rome, (AP)—Joining thousands of children, Pope Pius on Tuesday will bring flowers to the high-columned public statue of the Virgin Mary in Rome's Spanish Square.

He will thus begin here the Marian Year he proclaimed for the Roman Catholic world to honor the mother of Jesus upon the centenary of the dogma that proclaimed her Immaculate Conception.

The famous square at the foot of the ancient stone steps, known to millions of tourists, will be thronged with thousands as the pontiff approaches the white column, topped by a bronze statue of the Virgin.

This year, the date begins a year-long crusade of prayers and pilgrimages at great and little shrines dedicated to Mary throughout the world to seek her spiritual aid in today's problems.

From the brief ceremony in the Spanish Square, the Pope will go to Rome's most important of more than 80 churches dedicated to the Virgin—the Basilica of St. Mary Major, known also as the Church of St. Mary of the Snows.

There, again in the midst of thousands of children, the 77-year-old pontiff will recite for the first time the prayer he has composed for the Marian Year. The aims of the Marian Year include prayers for an end of hatred, an end of persecution of the church in Communist-dominated lands, an end of social and class strife and the beginning of peace.

Large Number Of Young People Attend Conference

Nearly 200 young people braved bad weather last night to turn out for the final meeting of the Pocono Presbyterian Youth Conference held in First Presbyterian Church, Stroudsburg.

Coming from as far away as Allentown, the young people heard inspirational singing by the Princeton Seminary Quartet and were challenged to work for Christ by Steve Prichard, Hollywood, Calif.

In order to spread the word of God, Prichard said, one must first be a Christian so that he may witness the Christian life. The total life must be given to Christ, he said, and what one has seen in Christ must be declared, regardless of the consequences.

Prichard illustrated his talk by citing the life of the Apostle Paul and of the reformist Martin Luther who refused to recant those things which he believed to be true. The convention opened Saturday at 3:30 p. m., with a special missionary forum. Lectures on Pakistan, the Far East, Africa and other foreign lands were heard.

Jack Crossley discussed the opportunities for Christian work in our national parks.

A convention banquet was held Saturday night in the Delaware Water Gap Hotel. Delegates from many churches were introduced.

Saturday night's special sermon "That I May Know Him" was preached by Jack Crossley. Yesterday morning various members of the youth conference team preached the sermons in Presbyterian churches in the Stroudsburg area.

Dr. Lawrence R. Furlong, Cresco, Pa., will be on vacation Nov. 29 to Dec. 13, inclusive.—Adv.

Two Buck Deer Battle To Death

"Investigating a report of two dead deer in a creek near Valley View, I found evidence that two big bucks had battled to the death after getting their antlers interlocked."

So goes a recent report of a Schuylkill County Game Protector, Ralph L. Shank. He continues: "Death probably came to one buck as a result of a six-inch gash that penetrated almost to the brain, caused by his opponent's antler. The other deer met death by drowning when the two tumbled into a deep pool in the creek. "One buck carried an eight-point rack; the other a smaller ten-point rack."

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

All-American and All-State football selections in recent years have become less and less real and important in the humble opinion of this scribe and as of now they seem null and void. Last Friday's release of the All-Pennsylvania State Teachers College grid selections proved to be the trump card that virtually wrecked the post-season game of picking All-American and All-State material. Anything that happens from now on, especially in the collegiate ranks, is just so much material for laughter.

Jack Morris, the big East Stroudsburg State Teachers College tackle from Pen Argy, was given honorable mention on the All-State football squad earlier last week. This means that Morris ranked with the big boys in the game, Pennsylvania, Penn State, Pitt and all the other schools of high caliber within the boundaries of the Keystone State. Although Morris was listed as an "honorable mention" selection, he still was included among the very best football players in the state by The Associated Press.

The Pennsylvania State Teachers College Conference comes along with the classic chestnut of them all when it named a first team, a second team and an honorable mention list without Morris' name anywhere to be found. The big guy, 235 pounds, is good enough to receive honorable mention in the judging among the big schools, but he's unable to land a berth in his own conference, even among the honorable mentions. I hope for the sake of the conference that it's an oversight, because if it isn't, the newly formed loss has been thrown for a 90-year loss.

On the Associated Press team Morris was judged by writers and coaches throughout the state, while only member coaches picked the All-Pennsylvania State Teachers College Conference squad. It's safe to say that seven of the coaches voting for the All-Teachers team didn't see ESSTC play one contest this season. Yet, they are called upon to pass judgment on the top players in the circuit. Making any of the "all" teams now doesn't require outstanding skill, but rather the ability to draw votes, much the same as a "Mr. Popularity" poll.

I sincerely believe that Morris had more to do with ESSTC's final record of three wins and the same number of defeats this season than anyone else on the squad. He was actually brilliant in the three games I witnessed. Who can ever forget his brilliant play against West Chester? I'll always remember how Jack tried to turn the battle with Ithaca College into a football game, both as a player and peace maker, as the remaining gridders appeared to be auditioning for wrestling shows. I know the Ithaca contest wouldn't count in the All-Teachers balloting, but it serves as an example of Morris' brilliance.

The "all" selections stink of politics more each year, both in scholastic and college ranks. It's not the player who shows outstanding ability, but rather the youngster with influential friends who picks up nominations from neighboring towns, the other end of the state or even the other end of the country. There are times, especially in the collegiate ranks, where one or more magazines from a board of coaches from various sections of the country and the board in turn picks the team. But, still it's not a true "all" team, as not all of the voters can possibly see every player in the nation.

How can a writer or coach in California say that any player in the East is All-American caliber, if he hasn't seen that youngster play or even if he saw him play in only one game? How can a sports writer or coach in Arizona pick Maryland as the top team in the country, if he hasn't seen the Terrapins in action this season? Once again, it's not the ability of a team or player, but rather the pull the squad or individual has in the right places. All-State selections in the scholastic ranks are becoming very bad, as each locality has its own bill of goods to sell.

True, in most cases choices are correct, but there is always a minority that is so wrong that it actually ruins any sort of selection. The fact that Morris was left off the All-Teachers list is a serious miscarriage of fair play, especially after he had been associated with the state's best by writers and coaches from boundary to boundary. A group of 12 men have the nerve to vote the same player out of any sort of honor in his own circuit—it just doesn't make sense.

The Pennsylvania State Teachers College Conference was formed to give up a well balanced athletic setup, one that would put all teachers colleges on a level and one that would improve the athletic rivalry. Actually all we have to show for the formation of the circuit is standings in all major sports and a good job of publicity by Merle Agnello, Johnstown resident. From where I sit the conference is operating in a hap-hazard manner and the recent All-Conference selection does nothing to improve the situation.

Millersville Slugs East Stroudsburg Teachers, 65-39

Werkheiser Too Much For Warriors

Millersville Teachers inflicted a stinging defeat on East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, as the latter launched its 1953-1954 basketball campaign Saturday night, 65-39, before a large crowd in the Normal Hill gymnasium.

The visiting Millersville quintet had everything its own way from start to finish, as it broke into the clear in the first period and increased its front running margin the remainder of the distance. ESSTC, able to move the ball well enough around mid court, was unable to get free to take aim at the nets. Even when able to shoot the Warriors were harried and pressed by the Millersville defense.

The Warriors were limited to 11 field goals, four by George Heidenreich, a former letterman just returned from the Army. Millersville, behind the uncanny shooting of Ed Werkheiser blazed away at the hoop in the opening period and held the upper hand at the end of the first 10 minutes of play, 22-11. The scoring tempo fell off greatly in the second stanza and the home team held the upper hand for the only time in the game, 10-9. The ESSTC charges of Coach Chris Denis faced a 31-21 deficit at the halfway mark.

Lee Contest
The visiting Millersville club got back into the swing of things in the second half, building a 19-11 advantage in the third stanza and putting the game on ice with a 15-7 edge during the last 10 minutes of action.

Seventeen of ESSTC's points came from the foul line, seven by John Sloan, in 28 attempts. Millersville hit from the same distance on 15 of 27 charity tosses. Sloan and Heidenreich led the losing scoring attack with 11 and 10 tallies respectively. Werkheiser ran up 22 markers for Millersville, on nine goals from the floor and four from the foul line. Klehner's Rockets, a team from Allentown, took the measure of the ESSTC junior varsity five in the preliminary contest, 60-45, despite the brilliant play of Jack Newell and John Smith. Newell is a former Stroudsburg High basketball star.

The varsity Warriors return to action on Thursday of this week when the University of Scranton invades Normal Hill.

Wax Puts Skids Under Players

Waynesburg, Pa. (AP) — If Wayneburg and Carnegie Tech basketball players hobbled around a bit yesterday it was because the two teams found the school gymnasium floor as slippery Saturday night as glass.

Someone was a little too generous waxing the floor for a dance Friday night.

Official Slides
First the referee nearly slid under a bleacher. Then the players started falling down. At one time nine of them were on the floor. After six minutes of play the game was delayed 40 minutes until rosin could be applied to the floor. Then, Tech eked out a 66-62 victory.

Kentucky, Indiana Win In Initial Outings

By Bob Hoobing
New York, (AP)—Kentucky, back in action after a year's absence, and Indiana's defending NCAA champions have launched their collegiate basketball campaigns aimed at a national honors as advertised.

Coach Adolph Rupp's Kentuckians, idle last year after being banned by the Southeastern Conference for over-emphasizing the sport, rode on, 1952 All-American center, Cliff Hagan's 51 points to a 86-59 triumph over Temple Saturday.

Indiana won its 24th straight opening-game victory by a 78-65

Grand Theater, Poconos Scheduled To Match Ability On Stroudsburg High Court Tonight

An East Stroudsburg-Stroudsburg atmosphere will hang over the Blue Mountain Basketball League today, as the Grand Theater and Stroudsburg Poconos collide on the Stroudsburg High court tonight.

The game, the first meeting of what undoubtedly will grow into a real rivalry, is scheduled to get underway at 8 p.m.

Most members of the Grand Theater five are former athletic stars and graduates of East Stroudsburg High, while the Poconos for the most part are former Stroudsburg High athletes.

The Poconos will take a record of two wins and no defeats into tonight's clash, while the Grand Theater will answer the opening bell with a mark of one win and the same number of setbacks.

Grand Theater opened the season with a victory over Nazareth, 59-52, but then fell before Hackettstown last Thursday, 69-51. The Poconos won over the same Nazareth foe in the opening tussle, 68-41, and then came back to down Portland last Thursday, 63-54.

The Poconos will probably open tonight's action with Tom Phillips at center, while Harvey "Hotsey" Bergman and Henry "Hank" Steller man the forward slots. Tom Somers and Paul "Muff" Warnick will open at the guard positions.

Grand Theater will have Ray Steele at center, with Harold

"Hair" Staples and Dick Pennington at the guards. Elwood "Mose" Gordon and Danny Epley may open the game at the forward berths.

The Poconos are coached by Tom Shiffer, while Walt Stem directs the Grand Theater five.

Jack Mullins, business manager of the Poconos, announced last night that no admission will be charged for the game, although a collection will be taken up during the course of the action.

The Grand Theater team is scheduled to report to Stroudsburg High at 7:15 p.m.

A preliminary encounter between Frank's Barbers and Frailley's Insurance is scheduled to begin at 7 p.m.

Pension Fund Dominates Baseball Talk

By Jack Hand

New York (AP)—The player pension dispute, threatening an open break between major league owners and players, dominated baseball talk yesterday as the players prepared to open a three-day series of meetings.

Trade talk all but disappeared while the owners chewed over the varied aspects of Commissioner Ford Frick's hassle with the players.

No invitation has been extended to the players to attend the meetings that open with separate league sessions today and tomorrow and close with an important joint convocation Wednesday.

Advice
From Arcadia, Calif., came a proposal by "Babe" Dahlgren, a former player representative, that the players adopt a "no pension, no play" stand. He urged the players to stand behind their elected representatives. "I know that to buy the present plan could cost the individual about $25,000," said Dahlgren, now an insurance man. "What player could have that money in one year?" He told the players his advice was to "get tough."

There was no word from the players that any such drastic action was planned. Apparently the player representatives were sitting tight to see if the owners would go through with their threat to consider junking the pension plan.

Both the American and National Leagues were expected to give the pension dispute top billing at their individual meetings. They won't take any joint action until Wednesday but each league may go on record earlier.

Three Matches Slated

Three matches are on the agenda of the East Stroudsburg Church League today at Harmon's Recreation, at 7 p.m. Schedule follows: Alleys one and two—Methodists vs. St. Matthew's. Alleys three and four—Lutherans vs. Presbyterian. Alleys five and six—Holy Name vs. Temple Israel.

Aussie Tennis Expert Warns Country Of Over Confidence

By Will Grimsley

Melbourne, (AP)—While most of Australia is elated over its recent sweeping tennis successes, court experts here were reserved yesterday in predicting an Aussie victory in the Davis Cup later this month.

Sir Norman Brookes, president of the Lawn Tennis Association of Australia and one of the country's great players of the past, led in warning of over-confidence on the basis of the rout of American forces in the New South Wales and Victorian Championships.

"It looks as if the advantage is with Australia on paper but don't go by that," he said. "I feel that these recent tournaments are not a true indication of American strength."

Sedgman Speaks
Frank Sedgman, who helped Australia recapture the cup from the United States and who helped defend it until he turned professional after the 1952 campaign, said:

"I look for an Australian victory about four to one or three to two. I expect Australia to win the doubles. Ken Rosewall should beat Vic Seixas and Lewis Hoad should win at least one and possibly two of his matches."

The American team moved into Brisbane yesterday for the inter-zone matches with Belgium and there still was great concern over Vic Seixas' knee. The Wimbledon champion said he still felt occasional pain from the sprained ligament suffered in his right knee a fortnight ago and that his movement was still restricted.

The Americans will meet Belgium December 17-19. The Belgians have a formidable two-man team in Jacques Brichant and Philippe Washer.

Barrett Announces Schedule Changes

Canadensis — Barrett High will play Greene-Dreher-Sterling High here on the Barrett basketball court tomorrow night and not in the new foundland as listed on the schedule. Joe Murray, Barrett coach, announced last night.

Newfoundland
The same two clubs clash in Newfoundland next Tuesday.

margin over Cincinnati. LaSalle, rated number four in the country in the final poll last March, captured its 39th straight victory at home in downing West Chester Teachers 65-51 with All-American Tom Gola dropping in 25 points.

Victories
Kansas State rolled over Denver 70-41, Illinois tripped Oklahoma 86-61, Fordham won its second game in as many starts 77-59 over a tough Niagara five and Western Kentucky defeated Southeastern Louisiana 84-60.

But Washington, ranked third last March, hit its second snag in as many nights against Stanford as the Indians downed the Huskies 63-61. Holy Cross, perennial New England basketball bigwig, ran Tufts ragged 98-64. Duquesne, another team contending for idle Seton Hall's leading position in the east, defeated Geneva 70-42. Pitt bowed to Michigan, 78-69.

After two defeats, "Bevo" Francis got his Rio Grande teammates back on the victory trail as he dropped in 41 points to pace an 89-87 triumph over Providence. Ivy League champion Penn began its season with a 78-50 triumph over Delaware.

Lions Earn At Least Tie For Grid Title

By Ben Olan

New York (AP)—The defending champion Detroit Lions clinched at least a tie for the Western Division lead by edging the Chicago Bears 13-7 in the highlight of yesterday's National Football League action.

By winning, the Lions maintained their one game margin over the San Francisco 49ers, who downed the Green Bay Packers 48-14. Each team has one game left to play.

In other games, the Eastern Division champion Cleveland Browns won their 11th straight without a setback by swamping the New York Giants 62-14, the Pittsburgh Steelers outscored the Chicago Cardinals 21-17 and the Washington Redskins blanked the Philadelphia Eagles 10-0. The Los Angeles Rams defeated Baltimore 45-2 Saturday.

Two field goals by Don Walker, for 41 and 36 yards, and a Bobby Layne to Dorn Dibble touchdown pass, gave Detroit its victory. Bruising line play by the Lions held the Bears in check until the final two minutes, when the Chicago eleven scored its only touchdown on an 11-yard pass from Tommy O'Connell to Ed Macon.

Slam Chance
San Francisco retained its slim chance to tie for the Western Division lead by walloping Green Bay, Joe Arenas scored two touchdowns for the winners and Gordie Soultas kicked two field goals.

Cleveland, after scoring only nine touchdowns in previous games against the Giants, poured eight six pointers over the goal line and added two field goals and eight conversions by Lou Groza. It was the greatest total the Browns ever scored in four years of National League play.

George Ratterman, substituting at quarterback for Otto Graham, played practically the entire game and completed 15 of 27 passes for 235 yards and three touchdowns. Graham, in his brief appearance completed four-for-four and one touchdown.

The Cardinals, who suffered their 10th defeat (they've tied one), had a 10-0 lead in the third quarter but Bill Mackrides sparked three Steelers touchdowns, two in the fourth quarter. Mackrides directly accounted for the final Pittsburgh scores, first by tossing six yards to Elbie Nickel and then by sneaking across himself from the two.

The Washington - Philadelphia game was a bruising defensive battle, scoreless until four minutes from the end. Then Bill Dudley kicked a clutch field goal from the 15 and Harry Dowda, intercepting a desperation Eagle pass on the Philly 26, added a touchdown with 45 seconds to go. It was the first time in 11 years the Eagles had been blanked. The game was played in a heavy downpour of rain.

Schuylkill Haven Wins

Philadelphia, (AP)—Pennsylvania's schoolboy football season rang down the curtain Saturday with Schuylkill Haven champion of the Eastern Conference and two teams sharing the Philadelphia city title.

With Don Hafer and Ron Rhen each racking up two touchdowns, Schuylkill Haven rolled to a 28-6 win over Scranton Tech in the playoff game at Schuylkill Haven. Tech had won the Northern Division title, and Schuylkill Haven the Southern final.

Deadlock
At Penn's Franklin Field, Philadelphia Northeast, Public League titlists, and Chester St. James, Catholic League champs, battled to a thrilling 20-20 draw before 45,000. A fumble at the goal line in the closing minutes of play cost St. James a chance to score another touchdown.

Bangor Launches Campaign By Entertaining Slatington High

Bangor—Bangor High lifts the lid on its 1953-1954 basketball season tonight by playing host to Slatington, defending court champion in the Lehigh Valley League.

The junior varsity quintets of the two schools clash at 6:30 p. m., while the varsity machines match ability approximately one hour later.

Coach John Heard was uncertain as to his starting lineup as of last night, but a tentative array of talent was made up entirely of juniors and seniors.

The tentative list features Gary Wynne and Dale LaBar, both seniors, at the forward posts, while George Voorhees, six foot, four inch senior, handles the center duties. Wayne Pysher, a junior, and either Rodney or Duane Miller, senior and junior respectively, at the remaining guard post. Rodney and Duane Miller are brothers.

Possibilities
There is a possibility that either Don Keat, only sophomore on the squad, and Art "Bucky" Parsons, junior, may start at forward in place of LaBar.

Others almost certain of seeing action are Franklin Gleim, six foot, two inch center; Wayne Landry, junior forward and Ronald Everett, a junior guard. Gleim is a senior.

Bangor is carrying 11 men on its varsity this season.

The Slatington open their portion of the Lehigh-Northampton League campaign on Friday against East Stroudsburg, on the latter's home court.

Tonight's outing will be the third of the young campaign for Slatington, a team that racked up 146 points in its two previous outings. The defending Lehigh Valley League title holder opened its season last Tuesday with a 71-56 nod over the Alumni and then came back last Friday to dump Coplay, 75-53.

THE GREEN THUMB

Protect Dahlia Tubers; Christmas Decorations Described In Free Book

By George Abraham

DAHLIA NOTES: The Green Thumb wants to remind our friends to be on guard against damage brought about by mild winters. Last year many lost tubers in storage, but this year there is something you can do to keep your tubers from spoiling.

Pack your tubers in peat moss which has a moisture content of fifty percent. You get this by weighing out 10 lbs. of peat moss and adding to it 2½ qts. of water. Work the peat over so that the moisture is evenly distributed throughout it.

Dust the tubers with fer-mate or sulfur to prevent mildew or rot, then store them upside in boxes. Work the peat around the roots, and do not allow clumps to pack against each other.

Best storage temperature is between 40 and 45 degs. F. Roots may be stored as high as 50 or as low as 35, but there's best results to be had in temperatures between 40 and 45 degs. If stored too low they are late in starting growth in spring, and if stored too high they may sprout and make too much growth before you can set them out.

FREE: Friends, we have a dandy bulletin on dahlia culture. It tells you how to pinch, feed, divide, fight diseases and insects on dahlias so you can have big prize winning blooms. Ideal fireside reading. Send self-addressed stamped envelope to me, c-o this paper, or to Green Thumb Greenhouse, Naples, N. Y. Be sure to check your addresses for accuracy. The Green Thumb delights in helping every garden friend, but sometimes we cannot answer letters because of improper addressing.

CHRISTMAS DECORATIONS: Right now is a fine time to be thinking about your Christmas decorations. It won't do a bit of harm to trim your garden or lawn evergreens in December, using the trimmings for decorations. If you're tired of the conventional round wreath in front of your door or window, why not make a spray instead? You can make a simple yet effective spray by wiring some evergreen trimmings to an old coat hanger.

The coat hanger makes a fine base for the spray and it can be bent into any attractive modernistic shape. Ribbons and cones or berries help to give more color to a spray or wreath. FREE: A Christmas isn't a Christmas unless there are lots of festive decorations in the home.

The Green Thumb has an illustrated bulletin, "Christmas Decorations" which is jam-packed full of good tips on making wreaths, artificial snow, centerpieces, corsages, etc. It's just what you need to add Christmas cheer to your home. Send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me at Naples, N. Y., for your copy. No postal cards, please, since they bottle up our Green Thumb mailing service.

SPUD CENTERPIECE: Potatoes are not only a good food, they also make a fine holder for a floral or evergreen centerpiece. Select a large spud, flatten it on the bottom so it will rest firmly. Sharpen ends of evergreen trimmings and poke them into the potato on all sides until you have a fine, graceful centerpiece. You can cut a hole in the top of the potato for a candle. Since a potato contains 78% water, it helps to keep the evergreens nice and fresh for days.

TAKING A WINTER V

Boy Who Asked To See Murder During Tour Of Police Headquarters Tops Wacky Doings

By Charles Mercer
New York, (AP)—A policeman's lot, never a happy one, was complicated last week by some surprising problems.
In Newark, N. J., a 6-year-old boy requested and received a tour of police headquarters. Then he asked to see a murder.

In Seattle a fellow reported to police he put $40 in a sock, put the sock on one foot, bolted the door, got in bed and went to sleep. In the morning the sock was on his foot but the $40 was gone.
Dallas detectives arrested a woman for carrying a concealed pistol in a coat pocket. They put the woman in a cell, but their job was incomplete. A few minutes later the jail matron sent them another pistol concealed in the woman's brassiere.

In Los Angeles they arrested the producer of a film attacking alcoholism and booked him on suspicion of drunken driving.

And in Chandler, Okla., they investigated to see why a motorist was holding up blocks of traffic. "When's that light going to change?" demanded the driver, pointing to some red Christmas light decorations. The charges: drunkenness.
They arrested a waterworks superintendent in Cleves, Ohio on a disorderly conduct charge. Ired because he didn't receive his monthly pay check, the waterworks superintendent turned on fire hydrants and drained the town's 183,000 gallon supply tank.

In Baltimore one of their problems arose from politeness. A motorist and a pedestrian met at an intersection and hesitated. Each motioned the other on. Then both went ahead. The pedestrian was hospitalized with a broken leg. The motorist was charged with reckless driving.
The whole week could be summarized by a message sent by an Oakland, Calif., cop. He'd been dispatched to investigate reports of a hole in the road. He found it all right, 3 feet deep and water-filled. He radioed headquarters: "Please send a tow truck to get me out."
